Shuffield Trial To Begin Monday In District Court

A Milam District petit jury will be selected 9 a. m. Monday to hear the trial of Hubert W. Shuffield, 66, of Cameron, charged with murder with malice. Shuffield is charged with murder in the shooting death of Jesse Kirk, Jr., 44 who was found shot to death the morning of April 14 in a small cafe owned by Shuffield. The trial was postponed from an original June 5 date until Monday upon continuance granted by Dist. Judge W. C. Wallace. Defense attorneys requested additional time to locate witnesses. Shuffield has been free on $10,000 bond since being charged with murder with malice in Cameron Justice Court April 14. A Milam grand jury indicted him April 25, but "no billed" his son, Eual Shuffield 37, also of Cameron, who had been charged along with his father April 14 after preliminary investigation. Judge Wallace will preside at the Shuffield trial proceedings. Defense attorneys are Charlie Smith, Jr., Cameron and Edgar Hoppe, Rockdale. Jack Prescott, Milam district attorney, will represent the State.

Board To View Proposal From Citizens Group

The Cameron School Board 7:30 p. m. Thursday (July 13) will review a recommendation from a Citizens Advisory Group for a 10 per cent increase in district valuations, but no bond issue. Supt. Earl Knebel said about 15 of the citizens group met with several members of the Cameron School Board, Asst. - Supt. Charles Ziegler and Supt. Knebel the afternoon of July 5. Roy Law was elected chairman of the advisory group. Estimates on the cost of constructing four classrooms at O. J. Thomas were about $32,000, compared to earlier estimates of $60,000 Supt. Knebel said. But no professional estimates have yet been made, he noted.

Administrators had presented a five - way choice for embarking on a bond issue in an earlier meeting. But the advisory group recommended the 10 per cent increased valuation (about $800,000) which would bring in about $12,000 added tax revenue. And the balance of the estimated cost of building the O. J. T. classrooms could be borrowed on a five-year payout program.

Supt. Knebel told The Herald that loss if transfer students would affect the number of teachers per year. Distribution of both white and colored transfer students showed 88 anticipated for 1961 - 62 in O. J. Thomas and 64 on the Yoe Campus.

$50,000 Blaze Strikes Cafe, Service Station

Workers are rebuilding two businesses in Cameron that suffered about $50,000 damage in a fire Friday.

Flames and smoke belched skyward about 9:35 a. m. Friday when an Army truck caught fire in the Cecil Armstrong Service Station, Fourth and Travis, and engulfed the station and the next-door Texan Cafe.

A crowd of hundreds looked on as Cameron volunteer firemen brought the flames under control within 30 minutes. No one was injured in the blaze.

Fire Marshall John Eanes said damage was estimated at about $50,000.

It started when U. S. Army personnel were draining some gasoline from the back of a 2½ ton truck in garage of the service station.

Eanes said Pfc. Robert Jones, of the 67th Armored Battalion, 2nd Armored Division, Ft. Hood was one of two men withdrawing gas from the truck. Eanes said gasoline fumes from the truck were ignited by a spark from an air compressor in the station. Jones' boot caught on fire, but was extinguished, Eanes said. He and the other unidentified soldier and 2nd Lt. James P. Ross, who was supervising, escaped injury as the fire spread.

Flames went into the kitchen area of the cafe, then struck the roof of the station and were spreading to the cafe side when firemen brought the blaze under control.

Cafe personnel said no customers were in the building when the fire started. Witnesses said they heard a muffled explosion, then realized that the building was ablaze.

It appeared that the whole building would be lost until firemen fought down the blaze.

Texan Cafe operator Tommy Thompson said he hoped to reopen part of the restaurant, the Western Room, as soon as the kitchen area could be rebuilt and fixtures re - installed.

A small army of workmen were busy this week installing electrical plumbing and other equipment fixtures.

The blaze completely gutted the east - side garage area of the station and the service station office. The small cafe office was also burned.

Thompson estimated he lost between $600 and $700 in currency and change.

The ceiling inside the restaurant's main dining area was totally burned and fixtures were heavily damaged.

After the fire was extinguished, a second army vehicle, pulled the burned truck hulk from the garage. It was later hauled back to Ft. Hood by Army vehicles.

Building owner Bob Wells told The Herald that construction work would be completed as soon as possible to put the restaurant and service station back into operation. Wells and Thompson both extended their appreciation for the efforts of Cameron volunteer firemen in containing the fire.

Cameron volunteer firemen fought the blaze under control in 30 minutes while a crowd of several hundred Cameronites looked on. Cause of the fire was ignited gas fumes from a U. S. Army truck being worked on in the Cecil Armstrong Service Station, next door to the restaurant.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

The great stretch of Texas from Corpus Christi to the lower Rio Grande Valley now has many oil fields, ranches, farms and orchards of orange and grapefruit trees but here is the way the region appeared when Second Lieut. U. S. Grant traversed it some 115 years ago as the army of Gen. Zachary Taylor marched to what is now Brownsville (as related in Grant's "Memoirs"):

"The distance from Corpus Christi to Matamoros is about one hundred and fifty miles. The country does not abound in fresh water and the length of the marches had to be regulated by the distance between water supplies. Besides the streams there were occasional pools, filled during the rainy season, some probably made by the traders, who traveled constantly between Corpus Christi and Rio Grande, and some by the buffalo. There was not at that time a single habitation, cultivated field, or herd of domestic animals between Corpus Christi and Matamoros.

"It was necessary, therefore, to have a wagon - train sufficiently large enough to transport the camp and garrison equipage, officers' baggage, rations for the army and part rations of grain for the artillery horses and all the animals taken from the North, where they had been accustomed to having their forage furnished them. The army was but indifferently supplied with transportation. Wagons and harness could not so readily be bought.

"The American traders and Mexican smugglers came to the relief. Contracts were made for mules at from eight to eleven dollars each. The smugglers furnished the animals and took their pay in goods of the description aforementioned. I doubt whether the Mexicans received in value from the traders five dollars per head for the animals they furnished and still more, whether they paid anything but their own time in procuring them. Such is trade; such is war. The Government paid in hard cash to the contractor the stipulated price.

"Between the Rio Grande and the Nueces there was at that time a large band of wild horses feeding; as numerous, probably, as the band of buffalo roaming farther north was before its rapid extermination commenced. The Mexicans used to capture these in large numbers and bring them into the American settlements and sell them. A picked animal could be purchased at from eight to twelve dollars, but taken at wholesale they could be bought for thirty - six dollars a dozen. Some of these were purchased for the army, and answered a most useful purpose.

"The horses generally were very strong, formed much like the Norman horse, and with very heavy manes and tails. A number of officers supplied themselves with these and they generally rendered as useful service as the Northern animals; in fact, they were much better when grazing was the only means of supplying forage."

Report From The Confederacy ...

Federal Army Growing; North Calls Invasion

By Robert Stonedale
CENTERVILLE, Virginia, June 25, 1861. -- Reports arriving here describe the organization of one of history's largest field armies in the environs of Washington, D. C., a few miles east of this outpost town. Just as in the South, the flower of Northern youth has rushed to enlist under the Federal banner in preparation for an invasion of Northern Virginia.

It is said that fully 200,000 men are now under arms in the North, with about a quarter of that number concentration in the Capitol. They are reported to be surpely armed and equipped; eager for delays always attendant upon military operations.

General Pierre G. T. Beauregard is keeping a wary eye on the threatening Federal preparations through the medium of newspapers published in Washington and other Northern Cities. These are supplied him daily, and are supplemented by the reports of his agents and scouts who pass in and out of Washington with impunity. The Federal authorities are apparently making no effort to keep their activities from the press and their plans are reported freely in the paper delivered here.

Recent events have brought patriotism to a new peak in the Northern Republic. Funds are being raised privately throughout the land for the equipping of hundreds of volunteer regiments now in training. The shortage of arms is felt severely however.

"For God's sake send us arms. We have the men," Governor Samuel J. Kirkwood of Iowa telegraphed the Union War Department recently. His plea has been repeated throughout the Western States. Confederate officers here view the growth of the Federal force soberly.

"Make no mistake, those troops from the West will fight," Brigadier - General M. L. Bonham, commander of the First Brigade, commented this morning. They live with their guns and are a stubborn race."

Highlanders March

Among the 64 regiments of volunteers now reported in Washington, many are unique. Foreign elements in New York City have formed special commands, the Irish especially having contributed. Among the Gaelic units are the 69th New York, The Irish Volunteers and the St. Patrick Brigade. The Italians in the metropolis have formed The Italian Legion and the Garibaldi Guard. The Germans have contributed The Stueben Volunteers. The German Rifles, The Turner Rifles and the De Kalb Regiment. The 79th New York recently paraded on Pennsylvania Avenue in Highland kilts.

The total of U. S. Army Regulars, three - month volunteers, three-year volunteers, and State militia regiments now in Washington exceeds 50,000 men.

The Northern press and public have not given unqualified approval to their troops. The First New Hampshire has been criticised for bringing uniformed nurses to the Capitol; the consensus being that the horrors of war are not a fit sight for women.

"Men should be ashamed to expose their womenfolk to the rude stares of soldiers and the stench of the camps," the Washington Evening Star commented yesterday. The Star also reports that the camps of the Fourth and Fifth Pennsylvania and the Twelfth New York are so filthy that nearby residents have been forced to move from the vicinity. Disciplinary and sanitary problems are ascribed to the lack of trained officers in the volunteer regiments; the North apparently suffers from the same lack as the South in this respect. There were only 1100 professional officers in the Old Army and of these, almost 400 have resigned the Federal services to join the Confederacy.

Short War Expected

The magnificent equipment and appearance of the Federal troops has brought many calls for an immediate advance to Richmond. The New York Tribune has been especially vociferous in this respect. "Jeff Davis' Co. will be swinging by their necks from the battlements at Washington at least by the 4th of July," that organ predicted last week.

"Let no Northern man or woman flinch from the task of crushing treason," the Chicago Tribune demands in a front page editorial. "This will be a short war," U. S. Secretary of State William H. Seward announced yesterday.

The military commanders are not so impatient. Captain O. T. Tillinghast on the staff of Brigadier - General Irvin McDowell, commander of the troops at Washington complained of the haste yesterday in the bar at Willard's Hotel.

"They expect the General to organize, discipline, march and fight all at the same time," he said. "It can't be done."

Lieutenant - General Winfield Scott is reported to be opposed to an early advance into Virginia. The senior Union general is known to favor a war of strangulation in which the coast of the Confederacy will be sealed off by the U. S. Navy. He advocates the careful preparation of a large force of regulars and three - year volunteers to invade the line of the Mississippi, thus encircling the South. Reports indicate that the counsel of the aged soldier will not be heeded by the Lincoln government.

An observation balloon can be seen hovering over Washington City and General Beauregard is known to have advised Richmond that he expects to be attacked soon. With only 15,000 poorly equipped men, the Gallant Creole faced a formidable task in opposing a warlike foe, eager for battle.

Lierman Gets Blinn Scholarship

By Robert Mann

Edward Lierman, May graduate of Yoe High School, has accepted an athletic scholarship to attend Blinn Jr. College in Brenham next fall.

The six foot, two inch, 185 pound former Yoe gridiron star, has signed a letter of intent and will report for football workouts at the end of the summer.

Lierman lettered four years at YHS in football and track. His senior year he rated as halfback on Dub King's Cen - Tex team, the Super Cen - Tex team and received all - district honorable mention.

Equally at home on the cinder track he clocked a ten second 100 yard dash in district competition at A M Consolidated this year. His best 220 yard time was a 21.2 in 1960.

"Bonecrusher", as he was referred to in his grade school days, has turned in a 21.2 time in the 180 yard low hurdles and a 15.8 on the highs; 18.4 was clocked the first time he ran against an opposing school.

His comeback after a neck injury received his sophomore year is something of a story-book tale. In the Cameron - Bellville game of 1958, Ed cracked a vertebrae in his neck. He was advised to stay away from contact sports, but never - the - less, came out for football his junior year running in the halfback spot next to John Josey.

That year was a dismal one. Not yet fully recovered from his neck injury he was hesitant and unsure of himself, openly admitting, "I was scared."

His actual comeback came his senior year. He led the district with a total of 90 points and averaged five and a half yards a carry. On breakaway and sweeping end runs he was unstoppable.

In track Lierman went to the regional meet four years in a row and captured the Central Texas speedster spotlight along with teammate sensation, Seve Malone. Lierman will be used as a split end and back on the Brenham squad used both on offence and defence.

Report From The Confederacy ...

Federals Near Manassas As South Concentrates

By Robert Stonedale

MANASSAS JUNCTION, Virginia July 9, 1861 — Jammed troop trains are arriving at this Confederate outpost in Northern Virginia in preparation for a great battle in defense of the Confederacy. Shouted commands mingling with the rattle of hundreds of freight and passenger cars, hourly announce the arrival of new regiments from Richmond. The entire district is dotted with hundreds of tents and dust is hovering over the countryside in great clouds as artillery and cavalry thunder along the dry roads.

The enormous Federal army based in Washington, 30 miles east of here, is known to be preparing to move toward this area and it is certain that a fight for Northern Virginia will begin within the next two weeks. The authorities at Richmond have been hurrying troops to the front as rapidly as regiments are pronounced fit for duty. The past weeks of small skirmishes and cavalry attacks which have passed for war, are soon to be replaced with the shock of thousands of men in mortal combat.

The opening of genuine war holds no terror for the eager patriots who have flocked here to defend their country. Soldiers from the Carolinas and Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi have joined their Virginia comrades under the Confederate banner. Smaller detachments from Maryland and Kentucky are no less ready for the fray.

"We brought the men for the fight" Corporal William Landson 19 of Selma, Alabama pointed out proudly this morning as the Fifth Alabama labored to erect its camp. The Corporal a former student at Virginia Military Institute, is a strong States Rights man.

"If we whip the Yankees here," he said, "we can drive them out of Washington. Then Maryland will come in as a Sovereign Confederate State."

His commander, Colonel Robert E. Rodes, also welcomes the opportunity to strike a blow for his native state.

"The North will only learn we are resolved on Independence after a great battle," the 32 year old VMI trained officer said. "They think their army of summer soldiers will scatter us at the first attack but they will find that battles are now on in the pages of newspapers."

Artillery Lacking

In this confident atmosphere Brig. Gen. Pierre Beauregard is preparing to receive the enemy whose advance elements are probing toward Centerville, Va., less than three miles from the positions the Confederate commander is establishing along the south bank of Bull Run. He has formed his command in six temporary brigades led by competent and experienced soldiers. The flashing - eyed Louisianian is facing odds greater than three to two since McDowell's Union army is known to number in excess of 30,000 men, but he expects to offer battle without hesitation.

"We lack sufficient artillery," he commented at his headquarters this morning as he issued a constant stream of orders directing troops to their positions along the miles of front, "and we are short of modern arms."

However, the men show dash and valor in their very appearance and will accomplish all that is expected of them," he said confidently.

Valley Threatened

Plantation aristocrats, tobacco - chewing mountaineers, and resolute farmers are joined here in readiness for the beginning of the great struggle for Southern Independence. But they face great odds.

There are few natural features even in numbers and artillery of terrain which favor defense were equal. A battle will be fought on more even terms if the army serving under Brig. Gen. Joseph Johnston in the Shenandoah Valley 45 miles to the east can be brought here. However, the large Northern forces in the Upper Valley and in Northwestern Virginia have thus far required that Johnston's command remain near Winchester, Va. The recent Union successes in the mountains are posing a great threat to the Valley itself and the Federals at Harpers Ferry are expected to move against Johnston at any moment. As a result, General Beauregard's 17,000 men may have to deal with the advancing Yankee horde unaided. On the success of their efforts depends the future of the South.

BAPTIST CHURCH -- Looking down the center aisle of the new First Baptist Church, the camera catches the detail of Georgian colonial architecture used throughout the new $162,000 structure.

Interior and exterior design features the red brick and white paneled effect of the classic colonial-style structure.

FBC Spans Century With New Church's Dedication

When the congregation of the First Baptist Church holds the dedication ceremonies for its new church building on Sunday, July 16th, it will mark another highlight in a history that spans more than a century and ranges from the days of the circuit riding itinerant pastor to the radio broadcasting of its services today.

And it will be the fourth time that dedication ceremonies have been held in its 108 years during which the church has grown from a half dozen members to the 515 affiliated with it today.

The church was started in 1853. Elders J. W. D. Creath and David Fisher gathered together Baptists living in Cameron and the surrounding area and organized the church in January of that year. Some of the names of charter members have been preserved; they include Mr. and Mrs. Alex Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Sample, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Allen and a Mr. Sears.

For the first two years after it was organized, the church did not have its own building, but the congregation used the Old Academy, Cameron's early day school house. A wooden building, it was located on the present site of the Little League ball field. The church shared use of the building with the Methodists on alternate Sundays.

Then in 1855 the Baptists, in partnership with the Masonic Lodge built a two-story frame building on the location of the First Methodist Church today. The church occupied the lower floor, and the Masonic Hall was above.

During its early years the church also did not have its own resident pastor. Instead, it was served by itinerant preachers who rode in on horseback on week-ends to hold services. Sometimes, in addition to the Cameron church, they also served Little River, Caldwell and Port Sullivan.

The church's first resident pastor was Elder T. M. Anderson, who served from 1867 to 1869.

In January, 1870, the building owned by the church and the Masonic Lodge burned. The following year, on August 12, 1871, the cornerstone of a new building was laid. The church, again in association with the Masons, constructed another two-story frame building with a similar arrangement to the one that had been destroyed -- the church occupying the first floor and the Masons using the second floor for their lodge rooms.

This new building was located on or near the site of Cameron's present City Hall. This location was chosen because it was believed that the town, then having about 500 population would expand in that direction. That this was a mistake was soon apparent, especially after the building of the Santa Fe Railroad's line through Cameron in 1880 which made the location noisy and undesirable.

It was during this period, in 1877, that the first Baptist Sunday School was organized. Previously the members had attended a Union Sunday School from several Cameron churches which Mr. W. B. Streetman started in 1865.

Dissatisfaction with their church building came to the point of action about 1895 when the congregation was considering calling a new pastor to replace Rev. R. R. White who had resigned. According to an old story, one of the members, Judge J. M. Ralston, proposed:

"What we need in Cameron is a new Baptist church building. Let's build one and pay for it and then call a pastor. We can all work together to get the money we need and we can save the expense of a pastor's salary until we get the building paid for. I move we build a new church house."

Accordingly, plans were made and the following year -- 1896 -- a new building of brick construction, was completed and dedicated.

The church's interest in the old structure was sold to the Jeter Lumber Company for $1,000 in building materials.

This third building in the church's history was located on the present site of the one recently completed. With some remodeling and alterations, it served the congregation for over sixty years. The last services held in it were on July 24, 1960.

At about the time this church building was completed, the Baptists acquired their first parsonage. It was first occupied by Rev. L. R. Scarbrough. A number of years later, in December, 1952, it was replaced by a new parsonage built on the northwest corner of the church grounds.

Another addition to the church plant was the construction of a frame building about 1925 for Sunday School classroom space. The church by that time had outgrown the classrooms in the building itself.

Later, in 1940, this structure was replaced by an education building. One story, and constructed of hollow tile, it contained classrooms and a kitchen and was located between the red brick church building and the parsonage. It is still in use.

The First Baptist Church during those years also was responsible for the organization of three other churches in the area.

The first of these began in 1914 when Rev. M. I. Pardo started a mission among the Mexican population of Milam County and the church admitted his converts to membership. The Mexicans, however, preferred to have their own church and in 1925 a lot, donated by Mr. T. S. Henderson, and funds for the first payment on a building were presented to them. In May 1925 letters were granted to 85 Mexicans and the Mexican Baptist Church was organized.

In 1945 letters were granted to 14 members, residents of the Battetown and Curry area and they formed the Battetown Baptist Church.

And a year later, in April 1946 the outgrowth of the organization of a Sunday School in the Hoyte

SAFEWAY

New Church Is Georgian Colonial

The First Baptist Church's new, completed building, a striking combination of dark red brick and white columns and trim, is Georgian colonial in architecture along lines reminiscent of some famous churches in the Old South.

It is a building of impressive size. It has a white front with slender white columns, and a white steeple rises from its center. Liberal use has been made of white as trim for windows and doors.

Inside, in the sanctuary, the red and white design also appears. The walls, pews and the slightly arched ceiling are all in white, except for the wall in front, which is a light blue. Thirty-four white columns line the walls of the sanctuary. Contrasting to this is the deep red carpeting on the aisles and pulpit steps and the red upholstery of the pews.

The windows in the auditorium rise from the floor to the ceiling. They are of stained glass in pink that gives them a soft rosy glow.

The sanctuary is spacious, and with the small balcony can seat approximately 600 people. The choir loft behind the pulpit has seats for 34 members. The pulpit is flanked on one side by a new piano and on the other by the organ. Education director's office, secretary's office and assembly rooms on its first and second floor. Two of these can be divided by folding partitions. There also are three sets of rest rooms.

On the lower floor behind the auditorium is the pastor's study, education director's office, secretary's office, the church library and choir room.

Hallways in this section of the building connect it with the adjoining education building.

The building is completely air conditioned. The church was built at a cost of $162,000. Frank C. Kill of Houston was the architect and Coffield Construction Company of Rockdale was the general contractor.

Miss Wanda Kirk, 1st WW Queen

Miss Wanda Kirk accepted the Miss Western Week trophy before 3500 western enthusiasts last Saturday night in the same fashion in which she goes about everything she does.

Wanda placed first in a field of eight contestants and was perfectly honest following the presentation by saying, "I am very thrilled, but didn't expect to win."

Miss Kirk's modesty is typical of her poised personality and pleasant outlook on life. She accepted the 1958 "Miss Cameron" honor in equal fashion.

A 1958 graduate of Yoe High School, Wanda is a pert, 5'3" brunette. As a high school senior she won the school's most beautiful girl award making the Miss Western Week title her third first place in beauty and personality contests.

Wearing matching turquoise western blouse and riding pants accepting the trophy and bouquet of white gladiolus she presented the trophies and ribbons to horse show class winners also.

Wanda's high school activities read like this: FHA, unit officer and a junior degree; member of the library club and attended the state convention, junior historians, FTA, reporter; student council member and also served as SC, secretary; society editor of the Chant Junior play cast, cheerleader, head cheerleader her senior year, and made the citizenship trip in 54-56.

In 1958 Wanda represented Cameron as "Miss Cameron" and went to Ft. Worth. She was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

On receiving the western week honor Wanda said she was very thrilled and surprised and her parents were pleased but she didn't expect to win. She has three brothers, J. L., who completed three years in the army last year; Stanley, a YHS senior and a last year's gridiron star; and Kenneth Paul, Ben Milam student.

Wanda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Kirk of 308 North Karnes. Kirk is considered to be a cowboy and known throughout the Central - Texas area for his ability in handling horses and cattle.

Miss Kirk's only future plans are wrapped up in Bobby Elliot, A & M College quarterback. Elliot is known to Yoe football fans from the 1958 Yoe team and the 1960 - 61 Del Mar Jr. College teams. They plan to be married. She is presently employed by Dr. S. H. Richardson.

A PICNIC BREAKFAST

The year's at the spring, And day's at the morn; Morning's at seven; The hill-side's dew-pearl'd; The lark's on the wing; The snail's on the thorn; God's in His heaven - All's right with the world! . . . Robert Browning

Some dew-drenched morning, set out at seven with a hamper packed with good things for a picnic breakfast beside a gurgling stream, a daisy-decked field or forest preserve.

When you reach the lovely spot, build a brisk fire in a portable grill. Likely as not there will be trout in the stream to catch and fresh watercress, free for the picking. Daisies too, to be gathered and to add their fresh country charm to the table you set on the greensward.

And while you drink in the beauty of the countryside . . . watch and listen to the colorful little warblers, the rose-breasted grosbeak, the vireos and tanagers, the white-throated sparrow, with its plaintive three-note song. They'll sing as at no other time of the year, as they rest and enjoy the spring before they continue their long flight to northern nesting grounds.

If you've never picnicked early in the morning; enjoyed the sounds and sights of nature at this wonderful time of year—try it, for it's an experience never to be forgotten.

Here is a menu to inspire you . . . with foods to prepare the night before and wrap in aluminum foil:

Half Cantaloupe filled with Fresh Strawberries
Grilled Brook Trout with Cereal-Topped Tomato Halves
Fresh Watercress

Honeyed Hot Rolls Coffee—Cocoa

Cantaloupe with Strawberries

Cut cantaloupe in half, remove seeds and fill with strawberries which have been cut in half and lightly sugared. Wrap each half cantaloupe in aluminum foil, twisting ends together at the top. Chill in refrigerator over night.

Grilled Brook Trout

Clean the trout. Place each on a piece of aluminum foil. Dot with butter, season with salt and pepper. Tuck 4 wafer-thin lemon slices around each trout. Seal the foil to make an airtight package. Place over a hot fire and grill, turning once, for 15 minutes. Place package on paper plate and open just at the minute of eating.

Cereal-Topped Tomato Halves

Cut firm tomatoes in half. Scoop out a little of the pulp and fill with crushed cornflakes or rice crispies, well seasoned with salt, pepper, onion flakes and melted butter. Place each on aluminum foil and seal tightly. Store over night in refrigerator. To grill, place over hot fire and cook 10 minutes. Slip out of aluminum foil onto paper plate. Garnish plate with watercress.

Honeyed Hot Rolls

Split rolls and spread with softened butter blended with honey. Place each on a square of aluminum foil and seal. Heat at one side of grill for about 5 minutes.

Picnic Place Mats

Cover any medium weight cardboard (shirt cardboard from the laundry, taped together) 15" x 18", with green colored aluminum foil. Tape foil to cardboard to hold secure. Decorate with spring flowers or cutouts of contrasting color gift wrap. These may be used several times, since the foil is waterproof and may be wiped with a damp cloth.

Duel Of All Duels Held On Cameron Streets Tuesday

Cameronites witnessed a duel that topped them all on downtown streets Tuesday morning. The fighters were firemen and the weapons, water hoses.

A single duel between Ed Kohutek and Nathan Lewis lasted fifteen minutes with a short breather in between for the two old timers". Kohutek finally got the edge by shoving a cone that both duelers were shooting at across Lewis's goal. The object of the game resemble a hockey contest.

Groups then took the spotlight an dbattle dwith the hoses for twenty minutes. Finally forgetting all about the target and aiming spurts o water at the opposing team. Spectators ended up getting the worst end of the deal. The younger set considered the hoses a final challenge and ended up going home with wet pants which probably resulted in "wet seats" for many of them.

Films of past Western Weeks were shown free of charge at the Milam theatre Monday morning. A full house was on hand for the movies. The films were taken by Bill Marek.

Cen-Tex Faces Bold Decisions

An editorial in the Waco News-Tribune recently pointed up the necessity of Central Texas' taking stock of its social and economic inventories.

The editorial placed community attitude at the summit of importance in gaining growth for this rich agricultural area.

May we quote:

"Community leaders could do a lot worse than to study the final statistics on the 1950-60 population factors in their own cities and towns. In the case of Texas, every county showed a gain by natural increase -- births over deaths. But in more than half the counties of Texas, and this includes nearly all in Central Texas, the net migration in and out during the 10-year period showed a minus percentage -- more people departed than moved in."

A number of communities have so inventoried the Census figures and have been watching these trends for years. But the majority of the area have not or the loss to other sections of the state would not have occurred.

The editorial cited the experience of the Paducah Sun-Democrat which surveyed nearby cities' growth which exceeded that of Paducah. Sun-Democrat Editor Bill Powell visited the growing cities of Elizabethtown, Bowling Green, Franklin, Russellville and Owensboro. He summarized their success in industrial development by saying:

"Attitude is what a city is, and what it offers. It is people, it is labor; it is spirit, co-operation, initiative and resourcefulness; it is history, balance and financial means, and it is the promise that brings the faith that is necessary for heavy investments in plants, machines and the training it takes to make hands productive. . . Those whose leaders fail them become sad, withering places looking into the past and seeing only past glory."

Growth of Texas' metropolitan areas or the West Texas area has been at the expense of primarily agricultural areas such as Central Texas. It would be illusory to think that industrialization of Cen-Tex towns and cities has been through continuous concerted efforts of towns, with few exceptions. Rural Texans are going first to small cities and finally to the metro-complexes for opportunity.

Until Central Texas and its component cities and towns recognize the need of valuing future growth in terms of industrial acceptance, the trend of the 1950's will continue.

As did the Paducah editor, we can study the successes of aggressive Texas communities, both for improved agriculture and industrialization, or we can meditate over the past glories of an area. In the process, we might realize that improving economic conditions -- be it Waco, Temple, Cameron, Marlin or Hearne -- does not make less of historic developments. It only improves upon the platform made possible by pioneer economic and social efforts.

Perhaps if Central Texas took more the view that this historic area is responsible for the amazing development of modern day Texas and less the view that the present should venerate the past, Central Texas could establish, among other things:

ONE -- A Central Texas interest group, perhaps a super chamber of commerce, to fill the gap of promotion left open by the State of Texas and to meet the competition of North, South, East and West Texas;

TWO -- A Central Texas interest group, perhaps of press and electronic media, willing to take the message of Central Texas not only to Cen-Tex audiences, but to the length of Texas and fringe states;

THREE -- A Central Texas industrial group, created around existing industries and obvious industrial potential.

The advantages of a Central Texas entity are powerful. Natural geographic differences of piney East Texas, metropolitan North and South Texas and arid rocky West Texas leave a lush "heart" of rolling hills, ebullient rivers and historic countryside. This is the area first settled in the 1830's, developed for agriculture and most liveable from the point of view of water, climate and vegetation.

What could be more challenging than a concentrated plan for industrializing its cities and vitalizing its agriculture countryside?

We could complain about conditions in Central Texas. We would rather foment the evolution of an area so fertile for its leadership's imagination and its people's improvement.

And we could start with an evaluation of community attitude, already complete in Cameron, which lays the giant step for progress from a historic backdrop to a new place in Southwest history.

Legislators To Return To Work

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN -- Texas legislators, like students who failed to complete their work in the long term and have to come back to summer school, return to Austin this week to "get it over with."

Goal is the passage of a two-year appropriations bill expected to run around $2,600,000,000. To pay for it, they will need to find some $350,000,000 more in tax money than now provided on the law books.

But if money is short, advice is not.

At least three committees have a word or two for the lawmakers. Two are unofficial. They are the Citizens for a Sales Tax, whose name explains its purpose and the Citizens for Fair Taxation, which is pushing Gov. Price Daniel's plan for additional selective sales taxes, plus more business taxes, higher taxes on alcoholic beverages and others.

A third committee, appointed by the Governor, avoided a single, specific recommendation but pinpointed some sort of retail sales tax as the most likely source for the amount of money needed. This committee is composed mainly of the chairmen of governing boards of state welfare and educational agencies.

Committee suggested that either the retail sales tax passed by the Senate last session (a "general" sales tax with exemptions for food, farm supplies, medicine) or a "Pennsylvania-type" tax which affects only the items listed in the bill or a combination of the two might be the answer.

All of which leaves the Legislature just about where it was -- with at least some support, and some opposition for any course it might take.

Auto Insurance Raised

Beginning August 1, Texas motorists will pay higher premiums for automobile insurance.

How high the premium goes will depend on the country in which the motorist lives and its accident record. In general, the big city counties have higher accident rates and insurance premiums than rural counties. In Travis County (Austin), the increase on a typical policy would be 15 per cent; in Dallas County, about 17 per cent.

This is the first increase in the base rate for auto insurance ordered by the State Board of Insurance since 1958. Reductions or increases for traffic accidents and violations under the Safe Driving Plan will continue as before.

Reasons given for the rate raise include:

1. More people than expected qualified for the 20 per cent premium cut allowed under the Safe Driving Plan for drivers with no accidents or violations. This caused a decline in premium income.

2. Higher cost of repairing to-day's wrap-around windshield, wrap-around fender cars.

3. Generous jury awards for injury and damage claims.

4. Drop in the number of new cars sold last year.

5. Apparent dropping of insurance by some motorists who had previously carried it.

Highway Costs Up

Cost of having good roads, the State Highway Department frankly admits, is going up.

Highway Commission has announced a highway maintenance budget for the next fiscal year (Sept. 1, 1961 to Aug. 31, 1962) of $51,300,000 -- which is up $2,100,000 from the previous year.

Reasons given for the increase: Texas had more than 1,100 new highway miles to care for and it costs more per mile to care for them. But proper upkeep, says the Commission, "stretches the taxpayer's dollar by increasing the life of the road."

Department now maintains 57,757 miles of highway at an average cost of $811 per mile for upkeep. Per mile upkeep cost has increased $19 since the last fiscal year.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

How do you go about writing a book?

The first step -- and much the most important -- is the gathering of the material, assuming that you are not going to write on a subject which you know at first hand -- your recollections of a famous friend, or a winter you spent in the Antarctic.

Then the materials must be grouped, so as to be easily handled. If it is a biography, the groupings would be the boyhood and early schooling, college days, beginning of career, etc. After the grouping, material must be given time to assume shape and significance in the writer's mind.

Last of all comes the writing -- which often takes the least time of all.

Research is fascinating. A while back I became interested in the subject of William Jennings Bryan, so all the biographies -- five or six -- were read.

When Bryan ran the first time for president, his opponent was William McKinley -- and so the biographies of McKinley and of Mark Hanna, the mastermind of McKinley's campaign, were examined. The next race, the Republican candidate for vice president was Theodore Roosevelt and he and Bryan were rivals thereafter -- hence the biographies of "T.R." were read; similarly, with William Howard Taft, Bryan's opponent in his third campaign.

Then, since Bryan had much to do with the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, came the reading of chapters in the Wilson biographies.

Also there were contemporaries who had contacts with Bryan, such men as Bourke Cockran, Grover Cleveland and John Peter Altgeld. Then there were journalists who wrote their recollections of "The great and near great."

Besides, there are the writings of professors on government, who have analyzed the methods and influence of various political leaders. And sometimes in an autobiography of someone, you find a recollection of Bryan.

Besides books, there are contemporary magazines which give accounts of the various conventions and campaigns; and the old newspapers, too.

The search for facts, incidents and color becomes intriguing, in deed.

Two Wrecks On Cameron Area Roads

Two accidents occurred on County highways the past week, incurring about a thousand dollars worth of damage to three different automobiles.

Highway Patrolman, Jack Straley, was called to the scene of an accident July 2 occurring about one-fourth mile west of the Cameron city limits.

Walter Post of Houston, driving a 1959 Ford struck the rear of a 1959 Buick driven by Rebecca Greene Howard of Cameron, inflicting about eight hundred dollars damage to the two cars.

Post was charged with driving while intoxicated by Patrolman Straley. The accident happened at 1:40 a. m.

A second accident investigated by Patrolman Gilbert Smith, involved one car driven by Mylous Maryin Tomascik of Rt. 1, Buckholts. The wreck took place about 8:15 Tuesday evening 1.9 miles south of Pettibone when Tomascik missed a turn while attempting to turn left off highway 496 in to a gravel road. He was driving a 1951 Ford pickup. No violation of the law was charged.

MANY THANKS!

I wish to thank all the people of Cameron who assisted in putting out the fire Friday in the Texan Cafe and Gulf Service Station. I especially wish to pay tribute to Cameron's Volunteer Fire Department for their wonderful work. My appreciation goes out also to those who offered their assistance immediately after the fire started. Reconstruction has already begun.

Dear editor:

There are many things I don't understand about Washington, and I guess this is balanced out by the fact there are many things Washington doesn't understand about me, but when it comes to financial matters, Washington is pretty much in step with the rest of the country.

I know it's customary to complain, if not yell and scream, about the amount of money Washington spends, but when you get right down to it, Washington pretty well reflects the rest of us.

For example, I was trying to scrape up enough money to buy a new picture tube for my television set -- I could get along without television, everybody did fifteen years ago, but who does? -- and it was straining my budget and to rest my mind and clear my head for a proper decision on this matter I picked up a newspaper and ran across an article that made my decision easy.

South District Sets New Record In Income Taxes

R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue in Austin, today said that the $1,630,000,000 paid by taxpayers for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1961, is an increase of $125,700,000 over last year, sets a new record for the sprawling South Texas District, and indicates the continuing sound economic condition for this area. He said that major gains were in withholding taxes which increased by $60 million, corporation taxes $10 million and excise taxes $60 million.

Phinney was high in his praise for the overwhelming majority of citizens who pay their taxes voluntarily and honestly in a country where 56 cents of each tax dollar is needed and spent on national security and defense. "Tight yseep of cooperation," he added, "permits the Internal Revenue Service to do its primary job of seeing that all taxpayers pay their fair share of taxes."

TEXAS LAWMEN Captain Jesse Lee Hall Special Force

"Strong, just... and fearless..."

Texans in the late 1870's were not surprised when Captain Jesse Lee Hall, of the Ranger Special Force, handed over the notorious bandit, King Fisher. Nor when he broke up the destructive Sutton-Taylor Feud, and settled the hash of a lot of fence cutters. Most Texans already knew about Ranger Hall and a certain one-man clean-up operation. Only 27 years old, shortly after he joined the Force, Hall was placed on detached service -- meaning, as usual, one job, one Ranger. The job was Goliad, then a lawless stronghold of escaped convicts, outlaws and murderers. The situation called for strong treatment, which the lone Ranger evidently knew how to apply. The undesirable population got the word. Soon Goliad was once again quiet as a sleeping mouse. . . Later, after his Ranger days, Captain Hall distinguished himself as the leader of the famous Macabebes Scouts in the Philippine campaigns.

Just as we have always needed the fearless courage and integrity of our lawmen, so do we need industry and commerce. When an industry provides a whole community with payrolls and revenue, relaxation and the pleasure of moderation -- it "belongs." In Texas, "Beer Belongs." The United States Brewers Association is constantly working with brewers, wholesalers, retailers and local authorities to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions.

Hay Quality Influenced By Time Of Harvest

COLLEGE STATION — The haying season is in full swing in Texas. The quality of the crop harvested may well depend, says Geo. McBee, extension pasture specialist, on the stage of growth of the plants when cut and the length of the drying period.

McBee suggests early cutting when nutrients in the plants are near the peak but with adjustment for management practices to maintain stands and fast drying to conserve the feeding value of the crop. From the standpoint of total digestible nutrients, plants accumulate most nutrients during vegetative stages of growth, points out the specialist. Some plants may lose up to 60 per cent or more of their crude protein when harvest is delayed until they reach maturity.

Generally, McBee likes to time the harvest to catch the plant in the boot stage or in early bloom. Quality is best in the Sudan group at the boot stage. Coastal Bermuda should be harvested when it reaches 16 - 18 inches in height; native grasses in the boot to early bloom stage; alfalfa when a tenth to a fourth of the plants are blooming and lespedeza at the first bloom. As plants get older, continues McBee, the quality declines and the undigestible fibers increase.

After the hay is cut, the moisture content should be reduced to safe storage level as soon as possible. Protein and other nutrients lost after the hay is cut often mount to 30 per cent or more in some plants depending upon the length of the drying period. And finally, points out McBee, poor quality hay makes poor livestock feed. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for more information on improving the quality of your hay crop.

National Farm Safety Week Set

President John F. Kennedy has issued a proclamation to observe the week beginning July 23, as National Farm Safety Week. The Department of Agriculture and the National Safety Council co-sponsors the observance of National Farm Safety Week in cooperation with the State Agricultural Extension services, farm organizations and all news media.

"There are those little extra precautions that can be taken by all of us to avoid many of the accidents which occur in our farm communities every year," says Alva E. Sanders, office manager of the Milam County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office. Statistics indicate that motor - vehicle accidents cause nearly one-half of the fatal injuries to farm people, but only one-fifth of the nonfatal injuries.

Safe drivers will help to avoid many of these accidents and among the factors which add up to safe drivers are compliance with all traffic regulations, alertness, giving proper signals, maintaining proper speed at all times within the limits prescribed, courteousness, self-control and allowance of margins of safety in maintaining proper distance from other vehicles and so forth.

Some precautions which tractor drivers in traffic should take are:

1. Good planning to avoid much unnecessary movement of farm roads.
2. Keep the tractor under control. Slow down for turns; leave the tractor in gear on downgrades.
3. Only experienced operators, possessing mature judgment, should handle farm machinery on public roads.
4. No extra riders on the tractor.
5. Well-located entrances to fields and farmyards to allow good visibility.

6. Courtesy in pulling off the highway to allow traffic to pass. ... 7. Red flags and approved lighting to call attention to slow-moving machinery.

"The cooperation of drivers of all manner of vehicles on our highways is needed in order to reduce death and injury rates to our farm residents," points out Sanders.

GRAIN STORAGE

Texans associated directly or indirectly with grain storage, in land transportation or exports are advised to keep a close watch on changes which the improved Great Lakes - St. Lawrence Seaway could have on the flow of grain to ports.

PULPWOOD

1960 pulpwood production in Texas reached 1,425,000 cords, the second highest on record.

Cost Of Feed Is Largest Item In Egg Production

COLLEGE STATION — Feed costs represent between one-half and two-thirds of the total cost of producing a dozen eggs. This makes it just plain good business to try to get the best feed conversion possible from the laying flock, points out Ben Wormell, extension poultry husbandman. A good feed conversion is the result of a combination of a bird with the breeding to do the job, a feed with the nutrients to do the job and a poultryman with the presence and know-how to do his job.

A study of the results of the entries in the Texas Random Sample Performance Egg Production Test for the last year provides some examples that point out the influence of these factors on efficient feed conversion. Body size of the laying hen is important because the first feed eaten goes for main tenance. It is obvious that it takes more feed to maintain a 5 lb. hen than it does a 4 lb. one, but the influence is not often considered, says Wormell. In the Random Sample Test, the average weight of one 48-bird flock at 500 days of age was 5.03 lbs. This flock produced a dozen eggs on 4.9 lbs. of feed. Another entry, averaging 4.57 lbs. laid at the same rate, but only used 4.4 lbs of feed.

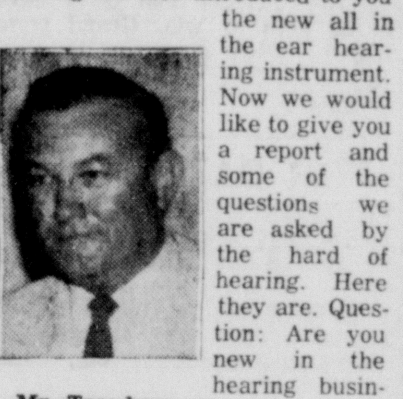

Two other requirements of the good layer are a high rate of lay and high livability. One entry of 48 hens laid 10,560 eggs to 500 days of age, but another entry produced only 7,498 eggs during the same period. The second flock used 4.9 pounds of feed to produce a dozen eggs while the first only 4.2 pounds. The producer must also remember that sick birds produce at a lower rate than healthy birds.

It is the poultryman's responsibility to provide the feed and environment that will allow the bird to perform at the highest level of which it is capable, continues Wormell. One factor within the poultryman's control that needs continuous attention is the reduction of feed wastage. It takes very little waste to amount to 10 percent, and this can mean 3 or 4 cents additional food costs per dozen eggs.

Wormell says the poultryman who uses a good breed of layers and practices correct poultry husbandry can reasonably expect to realize greater profits from his operation.

Hearing Clinic Set For Cameron

Last month we published in this paper a complete History of the Hearing Business. We gave you a complete run down on how the hard of Hearing is now being helped with the New Prescription Hearing. We also introduced to you the new all in the ear hearing instrument. Now we would like to give you a report and some of the questions we are asked by the hard of hearing. Here they are. Question: Are you new in the hearing business? Answer: No, our company has been in the same location in Waco for several years. We are members of the Better Business Bureau and invite any investigation you may wish to do. Question: If you are not new in the business why is it we have never heard of all in the ear unit, or the prescription fitting? Answer: This answer is a simple one. I am sure you remember one morning you awoke to hear the news that a polio shot had been perfected to protect our loved ones from the dreaded polio. The same holds true with us. After years of research in the hearing business we can shout from the roof tops that we now fit the hard of hearing with prescription instruments, and in most cases all in the ear. Question: This Question was asked more than any other. How much do they cost? Answer: This is the great thing about the new hearing. In all cases we tested and quoted the price we found that they could be fitted for less money than they were told a hearing aid would cost them. As one lady in San Saba said, "I was afraid to come see you for I just knew the cost would be out of this world". Was she surprised when told what good prescription custom fitted hearing would cost her. Another thing in the way of cost, you can be fitted and pay them out by the month. We met lots of people and we fitted lots of people but to those we were not able to see may we say we are sorry, we were so busy that we did not have time to give you the test, but don't worry we will be back. We want everyone to have this new test and see the new all in the Ear Unit. You owe it to yourself to have this new test if you have a hearing problem of any kind. If you now wear a hearing aid it is very important that you come in and have a complete hearing test to be sure the aid you now wear is fitted to your hearing loss. Here are some tips to look for if you are wondering if your aid is fitted to you. If you hear sounds and do not understand if more than one person is talking, if you have outside noise in your aid, or static or a grinding noise, if every time you turn your aid up to hear someone other noises drown them out, if you turn your aid up to where you can hear and it starts to squeal and whistle, if it hurts your ear, or gives you the head ache, or makes you nervous, then there is a 99 per cent chance you are mis fitted. If you do not wear a hearing aid here are some tips for you to watch. If you are having trouble hearing in a crowd of people, if you have to strain to hear people talk and still don't understand them, if you have heard noises like bells, sea roaring, rural telephone lines ringing, crickets, if it seems to you that your ears are stopped up then it is a good chance that you are either starting to have hearing trouble, or you already have it. If you are troubled with any of these you should come into the clinic and have a test made before get into real trouble. The test costs you nothing and you are not obligated in any way. This is our part in the research to help the hard of hearing. We will give you a complete hearing test and then it is up to you to do as you please. No one is going to try to sell you anything. We know there are thousands of people that need help but just keep putting it off for reason or the other. These people are taking a chance of deafness, or getting so bad that no one can help them. One of the biggest reasons most people keep putting it off is vanity. Yes, they will go through life suffering all because they are afraid someone will know they are hard of hearing, but you know the funny part of it is the people know they are hard of hearing if they can't hear, and wonder why they don't do something about it. Lots of times at the clinics we have people come by and ask us to go by and see so and so and see if we can't talk them into doing something about their hearing, and another funny part of it with the new all in the ear unit no one will ever notice you are wearing hearing yet you will go on day after day fooling yourself, but you can rest assured you are not fooling your friends. In fact they know you are hard of hearing and just wish they could do something to help you but are afraid they will hurt your feelings. As a man told me in Lampasas, "My own family was avoiding me because I was always getting things mixed up and they had to talk so loud to me all the neighbors could hear them. This same man said he knew he needed to do something about it but every time I thought about all those cords and buttons in my ear I just put it off a little longer. Then I saw your piece in the paper and made up my mind to see you. But I might as well tell you I backed out several times. But with a little push from the wife I came to see you". To make a long story short, we ran a complete test and showed him what we could do and how we could do it. I thought he was going to hug my neck. It was after this that he told me his story. We could go on and on with case after case of people that just keep putting it off. Now we will ask you. "Why are you putting it off"? Mr. Treadway will hold a hearing clinic at the Cameron Hotel in Cameron, Tuesday, July 18th from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. If for any reason you are unable to come to the clinic please call us and we will arrange to come to your home and give you the same complete test. If you work and do not get off until late we will be most happy to arrange an appointment for you after work hours. But be sure and call or have someone call for you so we can tell you what time to come in. If you have a loved one who would like for us to test that lives in some other town please write us at the home office. Our complete address is Hearing Center, 805 Austin St., Waco, Texas. Telephone Plaza 6-1971. Remember you are welcome and we will be most happy to meet you and talk over

Summer Savings Now at your Chevrolet Dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center

Corvair 700 Club Coupe. A 2-door budget-minded beauty with thistle-down handling, rear-engine traction and quick-stepping, sassy performance.

Nomad 9-Passenger Station Wagon. Chevrolet's the full-sized wagon more people are picking. A choice of size to save on nifty Nomads to thrifty Brookwoods.

Bel Air 4-Door Sedan. Priced just above the thriftest full-sized Chevrolets, Bel Airs give you the full treatment of Body by Fisher craftsmanship.

You'll find the buys even more inviting than the weather at your Chevrolet dealer's now. Because more people are buying Chevrolets than any other make, your dealer can serve up summer savings in extra big portions.

If you like your driving full sized, you can choose from thrifty Biscaynes, people-pleasin' Bel Airs and impeccable Impalas. If you've a yen for a big wagon, Chevy's got six that haul like sixty.

If thrif-size is your size, then Corvair's the car for you. Ten budget-pleasin' models to pick from. And, of course, every Corvair is a driver's delight thanks to the nimble, sure-footed going that's yours with Corvair's superb rear-engine design.

It sure adds up to a lot of happy-driving ways to save, doesn't it? Thirty-one, to be exact. With so much so handy at your Chevrolet dealer's, choosing a new car just couldn't be simpler or savin'er. Come in and see for yourself.

Jet-smooth Chevy

Impala 2-Door Sedan. Like all Chevrolets, this Impala gentles rough roads (or any other kind) with Jet-smooth mazi.

See the new Chevrolets at your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center
